

2023 ASEWU Primary Election Results

These results are unofficial until certified by the ASEWU Council.

An individual write-in candidate who receives more than fifty (50) votes will be listed by name and number of votes received. All other write-ins are counted in their respective "other" position.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE

This constitutional amendment will remove references to the number of ASEWU Council members and change the name of the ASEWU Council to the ASEWU Senate, allowing for a transition to a Senate model during the academic year 2023-2024. This change would allow for more flexibility and encourage a broader range of personalities and individuals from different parts of the greater EWU community to serve on ASEWU. In addition, the change would give students a more effective platform in the upcoming SRA process.

If this amendment passes, ASEWU bylaws will be revised to enumerate the number of Senators and their responsibilities.
