

Early Childhood Education Certification

Please remember, the Early Childhood Education program does not lead to an initial teaching certification.

If you are seeking the Early Childhood Education add-on endorsement you must have a current teaching certification.

For the Early Childhood Education Certification, you will need to take and pass the corresponding endorsement test (the NES for Early Childhood Education test code 101).

You will want to select EWU as a score recipient so that our Certification Officer knows you have taken and passed the test. You can take that test anytime you have completed all your 500 level courses or you can wait until you have completed the whole program.

Once you have completed the program and your final grade has posted, and you have taken the test then our Certification Officer will submit recommendation through your OSPI E-certification account and then she will email you to inform you of your available application and the remaining steps on how to apply.

*Please do not try to apply for your endorsement until after you have heard from our Certification Officer, it delays the process when you apply in advance of your recommendation.
