

16

Title On Stereotypes
Author Borjji and Greenwald

612

Author's Ideas	Author's Purpose
formations of labels/categories is part of our minds orderly living depends on categories These categories lead to stereotypes	to understand and explain how and why stereotypes are made

THESIS (Author's Position on the Topic): Stereotypes are naturally constructed by our minds to "make strangers distinctive individuals" and can become unfavorable, creating great potential for harm.

It is scholarly and informative, bringing in multiple outside sources to support its thesis.	G. Allport is heavily referenced along with S. Madon's Princeton trilogy.
Language	Other Voices

16

Title White Privilege
Author Peggy McIntoch

Author's Ideas	Author's Purpose
- Whites don't always acknowledge the advantages they have compared to others - Whites are subconsciously taught not to acknowledge male privilege	- To draw attention to the unacknowledged white privilege that still exists in our society today

THESIS (Author's Position on the Topic): Despite what we like to think, negative stigmas for colored people still exist + are piled on white privilege, and the only way to change it is for non-colored people to slowly realize that they do in fact have special privileges.

Unacknowledged Male Privilege White Privilege - kind of informative but not completely informative - unearned power	- Cambridge River collective
Language	Other Voices